NICRP Fall Newsletter

2016

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the Fall 2016 issue of the NICRP Newsletter. NICRP works to provide community reports on issues that impact Nevada's families as well as information on events that benefit children and families.

In this issue we provide an update on a few of NICRP's activities over the past several months. We collaborate with many community partners on a variety of projects involving early childhood education, improving school climates, and creating healthier communities. In addition, as the home of Prevent Child Abuse Nevada, NICRP organized a number of Pinwheels for Prevention events throughout the state to raise awareness for April as Child Abuse Prevention Month. The updates below highlight some of the most recent accomplishments that our state and local community partnerships have helped us to achieve.

These are only a few of the projects that NICRP is working on and we encourage you to take a look at our website for more information on these and our other projects and initiatives.

Sincerely,

This collaboration aims to study how a recently developed social emotional learning program for middle school students - Strategies & Tools to Embrace Prevention with Upstream Programs (STEP UP) - can help to prevent negative behaviors by decreasing risk and enhancing protective factors.

We would like to thank the Nevada Coalition for Suicide Prevention and the Nevada Office of Suicide Prevention for their support and encouragement of this partnership.

The Kindergarten Health Survey continues to be distributed in the state of Nevada as a way to gather data on the health status of children entering the school system. Now in its 9th year, NICRP, in partnership with all Nevada School Districts and the Nevada Division of Public and Behavioral Health conducts this survey in order to help identify specific areas for improvement and provide information to policy makers that can help guide decisions that impact children's health.
