

2015 Nevada Public Opinion Survey on Child Sexual Abuse

Quick Facts*

- 8 out of 10 (83.3%) residents believe child sexual abuse is a serious problem in Nevada; 9 out of 10 (92%) citizens believe it is preventable.
- 94.5% agree that community wide efforts to raise awareness about child abuse and neglect would be helpful in reducing child abuse and neglect.
- 93.3% believe adults and communities rather than children should take prime responsibility for preventing child sexual abuse.
- 91.7% of respondents agree there is a role for every person, neighborhood, group, organization, business and entity to prevent child abuse and neglect.
- 91.7% of residents are confident that they would know how to respond appropriately if they suspected or knew that someone in their family or an acquaintance was physically or sexually abusing a child or teen.
- 43.8% of respondents reported that they knew nothing or very little about child sexual abuse.
- 65.1% of citizens surveyed said they would be willing to participate in local trainings to learn more about child sexual abuse and how to prevent it.

*These statistics were taken from a statewide opinion poll conducted in Nevada by Prevent Child Abuse Nevada (PCANV). Please contact PCANV for full details of survey methods and results.

The Enough Abuse Campaign has been brought to Nevada by The Rape Crisis Center in partnership with Prevent Child Abuse Nevada, through generous funding by the Engelstad Family Foundation.

For more information about the Enough Abuse Campaign or to schedule a training, Contact The Rape Crisis Center at 702-385-2153 or emily@rcclv.org